WOMAN CASHIER IS UNDER ARREST

Accused of False Entry in Books of Defunct Crowder Bank

NO SHORTAGE FOUND

In Her Accounts, but Examiner Orders Arrest; President Rearrested

M ALESTER, Nov. 28 .- Miss Amy Osboon, cashier of the Crowder State lank, which closed its doors several weeks ago, is under arrest charged with falsifying accounts on the ledger of that institution.

The specific item named in the information filed is that of an entry of $2,000 under date of February 3. 1922, but which is alreged was missng from the totals given as credit of the bank that day. No shortage is attributed to Miss Osborn, but on savice of the state bank examiner she was taken into custody the noon on the charge named.

The bank of Crowder is said to short many thousands of dollars. Rumor current in that town says $80,000, but more reliable and con-servative estimates name a sum of approximately $40,000.

W. R. Hendon, president is under syresi charged with several counts, one of which is larceny or embezzlement and in the second case the charge is embezzlement. Tuesday morning Hendon was rearrested on the charge of embezzlement of the charge of embezziement of $1.413 belonging to the funds of the schools of Crowder and at the insti-gation of the board of education of that town, Hendon is asked eo account for that sum of their funds, llendon came to Crowder in 1919. He immediately entered the banking business and was one of the heaviest purchasers of farm property in Pitts-bersh county. He came from Shawnes, where a brother, Claude, is prosecuting attorney for Pottawatomic county, Another brother is an attorney there and still another attorney there and still another brother is a banker at Indianola.

attorney there and still another beather is a banker at Indianola.

Miss Osborn, arrested today, was formerly of Shawnee, She is an attactive young lady of 21 and since the closing of the Crowder bank has been staying with ner parents, who recently moved from Shawnee and now reside in Checotah.

TO FORM HERE

They performed their duties so well that they almost performed themselves out of a job. That's speaking of the gospel team of the business men's Bible class, First Baptist church, who have been so successful in upbuilding small groups and missions in this city and visinity this presented. More Than 300 Cans of Fruit and Goodies Sent to Children's Home small groups and missions in this city and visinity into organized, self-supporting churches that now they must perforce seek new fields to conquer. The three largest "little churches" which have developed from the gospel team work are the Riverside Baptist, Kendal; Baptist and Spring-dale Baptist churches. Ten teams from the class are prepared at any time to conduct church meetings and services, while 50 men have volunteered for different phases of the work. Recently the class has been invited to conduct services at the North Trenton Baptist mission. Also, it has been asked to organize the laymen's movement is churches in the Delaware Baptist association by sending teams to men's church classes, chubs and groups. S. E. Keene of the local class is chairman of the movement for the association. "Gee, that looks good!"

JELLIES MAKE

KIDDIES HAPPY

The speaker was a sturdy little orphan boy, standing rapt-eyed and absorbed in the office of the Children's hume Tuesday afternoon. That was a jar of clear, honest-to-goah grape jelly just like the kind his dimly remembered mother might have made. The same sentiment seemed to be unanimous with the other children, as they gazed at the jars of fruit, which multiplied stead, ily throughout the day. The children's opportunity to discover whether the jellies and preserves hated as good as they looked began at the supper table Tuesday night, with satisfactory results.

More than three hundred cans of home-canned fruits, 26e glasses of jelly and quantities of canned vegenaties, nuts, flour, apples, potatoes, bacon and other catables were brought to the Children's home at the ennual canned fruits shower years and the annual canned fruits shower years. The speaker was a sturdy little

Olga Petrova Will Add Zest to Tulsa's Thanksgiving Program

An unusual program of Thanks-giving day events will be rounded out Thursday night when Olga Petrova, author and star of "The White Peacock," comes to con-vention hall for a one-night en-gagement. Tulsans will have the opportunity of witnessing a play that has won wide appreciation in New York and on the road

Several yearstage Madame Petrova deserted the stage for the screen but following the war during which her services were donated to the government she turned back to it again in her present play because she found it a better medium for the presentation of her ideals.

tation of her ideals,

Meanwhile she has been constantly writing for magazines, her stories appearing in Smart Set. Ainslee's and many other monthly periodicals. She terms out one-act plays as well, occasional verse and even and anen bits of ironic realism. In writing her first three-act play Petrova had a distinct purpose in view, that of setting forth ideals she cherishes in the secret places of her heart. This she has accomplished with admirable success in "The White Peacock," and has achieved an even higher level in her latest play, "The Harlot's House," which will be produced and acted by Petrova herself early next season.

Thanks-Getting Prices in Thanksgiving Suits and Overcoats

Those who buy here year after year must have a reason. The proof of the pudding is the second helping and those who come back for Palace suits and overcoats must want more of what they got before. It's a very good sign.

Value and variety are the biggest factors in the selling of clothes the industry knows. That's why we make both a specialty here. We believe in quality not only because we like it but because it pays. We believe in quantity not only because you like it but because it makes you like the store where you find it.

It's never a case of more appetite than turkey at the Palace Clothiers. There's always enough to go 'round because we always have plenty of company. A little more than a man expects for his money makes friends, which is just another way of saying that it is up to you to buy where you get the most for yours. We want your business only on a business basis. Come in and see if we deserve it.
